ler's Confession of Friday.

Detroit, Mich. April 12.—After waiting examination in police court last night Prof. J. M. Miller, confessed murderer of Carrie Jennett, was arraigned before Judge Murphy in recorder's court early this morning. On request Miller's lawyer, Judge Murphy appointed two medical experts to inquire into the question of Miller's sanity. It is expected they will report this afternoon that Miller is perfectly sane now and when he killed the girl. Miller will then plead guilty and at once be sentenced to Jackson prison for life. He may be sent to prison on the evening train. There is no death penalty for murder in Michigan.

Detroit, April 12.—Joseph M. Miller, whose confession to the murder of Carrie M. Jennett was wired the Advocate yesterday, has been committed to jail without bail. He is to be given an "opportunity to plead today. While in the sweat-box yesterday Prof. Miller withstood the questioning of the officials but all the time Police Captain Baker sat gazing into the prisoner's face with a look that reached his soul.

Suddenly giving a shudder Miller cried:

"Look at that man," dropping his eyes before the steady gaze of the police captain. "His eyes pierce me through and through."

A shudder passed over him, and he hung his head for a second. Then raising it with considerable effort he glanced at Baker again and added: "I guess that man has it about right."

He then told the whole story of the crime. Miller said that he had illicit relations with the girl and was responsible for her condition. He said he offered to send Miss Jennett to a lying-in hospital but she refused to go, insisting that he leave his family and go to some other city with her. This he would not do. Monday night, Miller said, he had arranged with Miss Jennett to meet her at the corner of Warren avenue and Fourteenth street about 11 o'clock Wednesday night. They were to discuss what had best be done. He said he fixed the hour at 11 because he had attended a meeting of the Wolverine Circle, while she said she was going to a committee meeting at the Rebekah Lodge.

"When did you make up your mind to kill the girl?" Miller was asked.

"Last Wednesday afternoon," he answered. "I was thinking of what could be done and of my being married and with a family when my evil eye fell on a hatchet up at the house. It seemed to tell the way out of the trouble, and the idea of killing the girl swept over me with irresistible force then."

"I felt that I had to do something," he went on in a lower tone. "I felt that I had to get rid of her. She was infatuated with me, crazy after me and continually chasing me. If I gave a concert anywhere she was sure to be in the neighborhood."

He took the hatchet that was found by the officers in his kitchen with him. He secreted this on Seventh street, on his way to the meeting. When he left the lodgeroom he secured the hatchet again and proceeded to the corner of Fourteenth and Warren avenues, where he met Miss Jennett. They walked over to Thirteenth street and out to where the killing was done.

Miller said they sat down on the sidewalk and talked for awhile, the girl urging him to abandon his family and leave the city with her. He then whipped out the hatchet and struck her on the head. When asked why he mutilated her so he said he had no recollection of anything after the first blow until he found himself wiping the blood off his hatchet on the grass in the vacant lot.

A BILL OF RIGHTS FOR PORTO RICO.

Washington, April 12.—In order to perfect the act for the civil government of Porto Rico, which he believes to be defective owing to the developments in the Iglesias case, in Porto Rico, Representative Cooper of Wisconsin, chairman of the house committee on insular affairs today introduced a bill of rights for that island. The bill provides that no law shall be passed abridging the freedom of speech of the press or of the people to publicly to assemble peaceably and petition the government for a redress of grievances.

The remainder of the bill is taken from the constitution of the United States. The constitutional provisions as to the right of habeas corpus, ex post facto laws, the issuing of search warrants, titles of nobility, excessive bail, slavery and the establishment of religion, are extended to Porto Rico by this bill.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The death of Dr. T. De Witt Talmage is expected at any moment. He has not been conscious for three days and the congestion of the brain has not cleared. His physicians say that he will pass away without regaining consciousness. No remedies that the brain specialists have been able to administer have had any effect and the family has been told to resign hope. His son and daughters are all at the residence on Massachusetts avenue and the trained nurse, who is with the sick man constantly has had no task to perform but that of watching for the final sign when she must summon the family to the bedside.

IN FINE STYLE DIAMOND THIEF KELLEY LIVED

SAFE BLOWING OUTFIT FOUND IN HIS APARTMENTS.

MAN MADE ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE

Knocked Lieutenant Down and Tripped Up Detective O'Brien—Wanted at Hamilton, Ohio.

Chicago, April 12.—Edward Kelly, an alleged diamond robber and safe blow, was arrested in Woodlawn at Sixty-third street under exciting circumstances by Lieutenant Edward McCann and Detective Patrick O'Brien. When the officers accosted Kelley he made a desperate attempt to escape, knocking the lieutenant down and tripping up Detective O'Brien.

The noise of shots fired by the officers brought out scores of people to the sidewalk from stores in the vicinity and attracted the attention of passengers on the elevated trains. With Detective O'Brien close in pursuit the fugitive dived head first through a cellar window in a building in course of erection just north of the Park Gate hotel and was knocked down by Lieutenant McCann, while making an exit through a rear cellar door.

Kelly is wanted at Hamilton, Ohio, for alleged implication in a $10,000 diamond robbery. The police and post-office authorities here expect to connect him with the $75,000 Chicago post-office robbery.

At the Park Gate hotel, where he rented a suite of rooms Kelly was known as William Summers. For days at a time Kelly, it is said, would absent himself from the hotel, returning usually late at night and leaving early in the morning. Because of the little time he spent in his luxuriously furnished apartments guests in the hotel wondered how it paid him to retain the rooms. But the rent was always paid in advance and no questions were asked.

From time to time telegrams signed by Kelly reached the hotel from distant points. They were in the form of requests that his mail be forwarded to him, sometimes at Minneapolis, Boston, St. Louis, Detroit and other places.

When arrested he was faultlessly attired. In contrast to silver backed toilet articles and expensive ornaments, which with fourteen suits of clothing were in his rooms at the hotel, the police found a small satchel containing fifty feet of fuse and several boxes of safe blowers' caps.

REPRIEVE GRANTED

AFTER TWO WOMEN REACHED COLUMBUS

CONVICTED OF STEALING CHILD OF A. V. TAYLOR

A SON OF THE OLDER WOMAN.

Missing Child's Mother Very Bitter—
Says Facts Were Misrepresented to Create Sympathy.

Columbus, O., April 12.—Governor Nash has granted a reprieve to Mrs. Frances Langworthy Taylor and her daughter, who were sentenced by the Court of Hamilton county to serve one year in the penitentiary for concealing and refusing to make known the whereabouts of Margaret Taylor the granddaughter of Mrs. Frances Langworthy Taylor.

The mother and daughter were brought to the city yesterday and at once taken to the penitentiary. They were not subjected to the usual examination because the officers of the prison were notified that an appeal would be made to the Governor at once to grant a respite.

Henry C. Taylor of this city, a distant relative of the prisoners and a member of Governor Nash's staff, appeared before the Governor in behalf of the mother and daughter.

The Governor granted a sixty day reprieve in order that the case may be taken before the State Board of Pardons May 29.

The reprieve fixes the bond at $500 and requires the women to remain in Franklin county during the 60 days.

Never in the knowledge of those acquainted with the affairs of the Governor's office has a reprieve been granted under such circumstances. Ordinarily such respites are given only in first degree murder cases, and then as a matter of course, the prisoner is kept within the walls of the penitentiary.

Governor Nash said that the case was such an unusual one that he felt it his duty to grant the reprieve. He has investigated the case closely. He has taken into consideration the previous standing of the prisoners and the unusual charge upon which they were convicted.

In their plea to the governor the attorneys for the Taylors said the position of the Court and Prosecutor was that if the women would give information that would reveal the whereabouts of the child Margaret they would join in the request for the pardon.

The attorneys point out that it appears impossible for the mother and daughter to do this, and that unless the pardon is granted they must be punished for not doing what is utterly beyond their power to do. Mrs. Taylor is 78 and her daughter a little over 20 years old.

CHILD'S MOTHER VERY BITTER.

Cincinnati, O., April 12.—The mother of little Margaret Taylor who was abducted by her aunt, Clara Taylor, is determined that grandmother and aunt, Frances, of the child, shall serve their sentences of one year in the penitentiary if she has any influence with the Governor and pardoning board.

Mrs. Taylor is very bitter in her denunciation of her mother-in-law and sister-in-law. She is persistent in the statement that the two women sentenced to a year in the penitentiary for alleged complicity in kidnapping her daughter, know where the girl is, but would sooner serve a sentence than tell. She said:

"I am accused of abusing my little girl. If this were true, why did they not adopt a legal course and get the child from a brutal mother. The fact is, I have always been attentive to my children."

"These two women know where my child is but they promised Clara that under no condition would they divulge its whereabouts."

"Ever since my marriage with Mr. Taylor the mother and sisters of my husband have caused me a great deal of trouble. I married my husband at the home of my sister in Chicago on November 19, 1892. My own mother said that if I married him she would have nothing to do with me. I regret to state that she kept her word as long as she lived.

"My sister-in-law says, with a great deal of gusto, that she aided my husband financially, and helped to give me a social standing. The fact is, they bled my husband of money. They always wanted money from him."

"It became necessary for me to tell my husband, when we lived in the same house with my mother-in-law, that either his family should leave it or I would. Frances had ordered me out of the house. I told my husband he must choose between me and his family. He must come with me or stay with them. We then came to live in the city, and have got along all right when his folks were not around to interfere."

"My husband got his mother and sister sentenced to the penitentiary. Now let him get them out the best way he knows how. I shall oppose him in this with all my power."

"I do not know whether this will separate us or not. The question of my child's kidnapping is not discussed between us."

"I am determined if it becomes necessary, to go before the Governor and the pardoning board and protest against those women being pardoned. I shall make some statements at that time that will be a revelation."

"I am willing to have my conduct investigated. My treatment of my three children, Owen, aged 6; Arthur, aged 4, and Edward, aged two and a half years, is a fair indication of my conduct as a mother. My whole effort has been in the proper care of my home and the proper bringing up of my children. This effort to excuse the kidnapping at the expense of my good name is in keeping with other actions of the Taylor family."

THE CODE BILL SPECIAL FOR TUESDAY NEXT

APPARENTLY LITTLE CHANCE FOR PASSAGE

THE BILL HAS BEEN SO ALTERED

That Even Its Authors are Hardly Able to Recognize It—One Important Change.

Columbus, April 12.—The municipal code bill or what is left of it, has been made the special order in the house for next Tuesday. There is apparently no chance for it to become a law. Neither its authors, Edw. Kibler of Newark and Judge Pugh of Columbus, nor its advocates have been able to convince any considerable number of legislators that the measure before the general assembly will work the reform predicted of it by those most interested in its passage. Moreover, the bill has been so altered since its introduction that its authors are hardly able to recognize it, and if they now favor its passage it must be for the sake of a supposed "vindication" rather than for any deep regard they may have had for the original bill. The bill as it now stands provides for the election of directors of departments in cities instead of for their appointment by the mayor as now. This, of course would utterly destroy the chief executive's responsibility to the people of his city and would bring about a system of hodgepodge government unprecedented in the history of even such abused municipalities as have been the victims of legislation in the state of Ohio. Countless other provisions of the bill are contradictory and inadequate. The basic trouble with the measure is that it was framed by men intimately familiar with law, but lacking in experience with municipal affairs. It will either be killed or amended out of all semblance of its original provisions and put in such shape for passage that it will make no radical changes from the present system.

SENATE'S CONTROL

OF ALL IMPORTANT LEGISLA- TION

IS THE ACTUAL SITUATION AT COLUMBUS.

ALL CORPORATION INTERESTS

Carefully Guarded, But Labor Turned Down—Redistricting Still Unsettled—Coming Fight.

Columbus, April 12.—When the last chapter in the history of the Seventy-fifth General Assembly of Ohio is written, the most important part of it will be left out entirely or read only between the lines. The omitted portions will relate to the legislation proposed but not enacted, and this fact will not be due entirely to the large number of bills that have been introduced. The statesmen have had time enough to pass them all, if they had desired to do so. Doubtless many of them did not deserve to be made laws, but not even this fact will account for the failure of others that readily passed the lower house and were never heard of after that time.

It is to the senate that the people must look for some explanation, if it can be given, of the singular manner in which deserving measures have found oblivion, after having passed the house in some cases almost unanimously. During the early part of the session some wonder was expressed because the various lobby interests appeared to be strangely inactive in that body. Bills aimed at large interests, and most of them in behalf of labor, for some reason or other did not meet with the organized opposition from the house lobby that they were expected to encounter. As a rule they went through with a rush with but little debate, and early in the day, before the real legislative situation became apparent, the representatives of organized labor began to congratulate themselves that their hopes were apparently assured of fruition at this session. The old saying that relates the folly of counting your chickens before they are hatched, never applied to any proposition more appropriately than in these instances.

It is now evident that the lobby was acting a part, and acting it well, when it permitted many reform measures to pass the house practically without objection. This policy disarmed the friends of such legislation and gave its enemies a tighter grip to close upon it whenever the time might appear ripe. This time, it is now equally apparent, arrived when the reform bills reached the senate, the Gibraltar of the corporate and special interests that early conspired to control the present Republican legislature through the upper house alone, reserving all their power to influence senatorial action only and leaving the house to do its own sweet will. There is something as rotten in the Ohio Senate as there was on an earlier occasion in the state of Denmark. Every Bill in the interest of the working people that has passed the house has thus far been throttled in the senate, while the latter has fooled its time away with factional Republican quarrels, dickering over the schemes of the administration and playing cheap politics. These bills will fail because of the senate. Adjournment will find them still "in committee," whence, of course, they might have been taken at any time, but where, as a matter of fact, they have been deliberately chloroformed. This was the plan which their enemies conceived, before the legislature met, to defeat their passage, and it has worked admirably in the next campaign, by which time all the facts will be known, the Republicans will have a hard time trying to evade direct responsibility for defeating legislation in behalf of labor. The senate will be shown to have acted all along as the plant tool of the opponents of organized labor and nothing the house has done will suffice to quash the people's indictment against the Republican party of

With the news from Holland that President Kruger is suffering from increased feebleness and loss of memory that prevent his activity in politics, comes the announcement, through British sources, of a conference of Boer generals and political leaders at Klerksdorp, in the South-western Transvaal, to consider propositions for peace. It is attended by President Steyn, of the Orange Free State, and Generals Botha, Meyer, De Wet, Delarey and others, and is the first time these civil and military leaders have come together. They are fully possessed of British terms of peace, which, it is believed, will satisfy the Boers if they are content to abandon their claims for national independence. On that the negotiations hinge. The British are undoubtedly eager to end the war without a continuance of hostilities. King Edward is especially desirous to have peace declared before his coronation. The probabilities are strong that it may be accomplished.

The spread of socialism in Germany is difficult to reconcile with the contentment of the people under an imperial dynasty. A recent publication compares the low attendance and the small number of churches in Berlin the capital city of the empire, with the number of halls devoted to the propagation of social democracy or the principle of Lassalle. For each church erected in Berlin there are at least five social halls devoted to advanced politics. The emperor doesn't like it, and strives to repress the tendency, but is unable to do so. The state church recognizes the social democracy as its foe, and this condition and the spread of socialism not only apply to Berlin, but to all the large provincial cities of Germany. The Socialist is the strongest party in Germany, and is increasing as no other political organization.

"I remember," writes a correspondent of the London Chronicle, "a meeting two of my colleagues had with Delarey in the earlier part of the war. The representative of an Australian paper was mortally wounded. Two of his comrades entered the Boer lines in quest of him. They were blindfolded and taken before the general. When their eyes were unbandaged they beheld a venerable looking Boer in turn-up shirt sleeves seated on the ground, peeling potatoes. It was Delarey himself."

Referring to the gratifying and wonderful work in cutting down the death rate in Havana from 21,250 in a single year to 5,720 with a larger population, the New York World well says: "Of all the victories won in the field by the army created for the war of 1898 none reflects upon it such credit as its triumph against disease."

GENERAL SHERMAN RIGHT ON WAR.

(Pittsburg Post.)

The progress of wars undertaken by the two great Christian powers of the world, both of which accepted the humanizing principles of The Hague peace conference, and, it is to be supposed, conduct wars of conquest with all the humanity possible, adds another proof of the accuracy of General Sherman's striking definition that war is "all hell." The real facts and the true story are not set forth in official reports, but are sometimes disclosed as incidents or accidents of campaigning. A trooper of the British carabineers in South Africa makes public statement, accepted as truthful, that the guilty Australian officers of that shamed and disbanded corps killed nearly forty unarmed Boers, including three children who had come to ask food. In dispatches sent by the chivalrous Delarey to Holland the details of many atrocities committed by the British troops are sustained by affidavit. No need to recall the horrors of the concentration camps.

Then refer to the news we are getting from the Philippines as disclosures of the trial of Major Waller. That officer has testified in his own defense on a charge of executing natives in Samar, without trial, that the American general, Smith, instructed him to "kill and burn," saying that "the more we killed and burned the better pleased he would be," that it was "no time to take prisoners," and that he was to "make Samar a howling wilderness." Major Waller asked General Smith to define the age limit for killing, and he replied "Everything over ten." Captain David D. Porter, Captain Hiram I. Bearss and Lieutenant Frank Halford, all of the marine corps, corroborated Major Waller's testimony.

All this is bad enough, but by implication a more degrading state of affairs than the mere butchery of human beings is disclosed by a recent appeal to President Roosevelt, by the Congressional ministers of Boston, assembled to consider the prevalence of vice in the Philippines, under the supervision of American authorities. This extract is from the appeal to the President:

"They respectfully and most urgently appeal to the President of the United States to put an immediate end to a system which has often been proved in various quarters of the globe, ineffective for the purpose for which it is instituted, which is abhorrent to the instincts of an government of a Christian nation, and the substitution of a system which looks to the reformation of those unfortunate victims of vice."

This guarded language refers to the protection and encouragement of vice in its most degraded and demoralizing forms. It is not a subject that can be plainly discussed at length, with the ascertained facts. Propriety forbids that. At a recent meeting of the Methodist Preachers' association at Indianapolis a statement was presented from the National W. C. T. U. setting forth that the military officers in the Philippines are not dealing with vice in the proper way and appealing to the ministers "for the sake of the returning soldier and the entailed misery upon his wife and 'unborn children' to remonstrate against conditions that obtain in the islands. This represents a quiet agitation going on in this country that for obvious reasons cannot be publicly discussed in all its shocking details. It need only be said that there are in the Philippines 70,000 young American soldiers engaged in needless and cruel war—as all war is cruel—and they are subjected to the moral as well as the physical perils of war conditions.

SENATE'S CONTROL.

Ohio as controlled by Hanna, Foraker et al.

Congressional redistricting has taken another flop during the last week, but the Republican dilemma in this regard is still as confusing as ever. A union of the Daugherty and anti-Hanna forces in the house, with the assistance of Boss Cox's Hamilton county delegation, resulted in the reversal of the decree of the last Republican caucus in favor of the original Patterson bill, and subsequently the amended bill, dropping Fairfield county from the Twelfth district and placing it in the Eleventh, and creating a new Twelfth district out of Franklin alone, passed the house by a strict party vote. Trouble bobs up again, however, in the senate, and the fate of the scheme is not assured. Hanna's right hand man, Dr. Hissey, who has been fighting any change in the district, has practically given up the fight. He says that this district is bound to be changed but that no other will be. On the other hand, there are a number of Republicans in the senate who will fight for either the Patterson bill or a change which will make this district Republican, change the Third so as to make it Republican and place Marion in the Eighth district. There is a good chance for another row over the bill, though the chances are that the bill as it passed the house will become a law. The long contest over this matter has been useful in proving that the Republicans have interest only in "practical politics" and no time to "fool" with anything else. And still at this late day they don't know where their genius for political dickerings will land them.

The most reasonable estimates regarding adjournment of the legislature now place the date at April 28. Members on both sides are sincerely anxious to get away and wound wind up affairs today if they could. The approaching state campaign is beginning to demand attention and members are desirous of getting at the details of organization, which they cannot do while the session continues. The campaign promises to open earlier than usual. The Republican convention is looked for the last week in May. The fight that will ensue between the Republican factions for control of the senate central committee will leave the party in very poor form to enter the campaign. This will be the sole object of interest to the Hanna and Foraker people, who will regard the ticket as a very insignificant matter in comparison with the grave question as to who is to be the supreme boss this year and two years hence. It is now assured that Mark Hanna will have to meet the greatest crisis of his career in the near future. The Forakerites and the old Kurtz guard are "after him" as they never were before in every county, township and precinct, and the organization they are perfecting will be the strongest that has ever run foul of the Hanna machine. Uncle Mark is well aware of the situation and knows what is coming. Whether he will be ready for it is another question, but the gap that will be created when the warring clans have come together and been thrown back by the shock, will be one through which the Democracy of Ohio may be assured of slipping through to power, if it is as wise as it should be.

The fish and game bill will be reported from the committee having it in charge next Tuesday, but meanwhile citizens who are interested in its provisions should get after their representatives with a sharp stick, if they would save the bill from a fate not much better than defeat. The bill was seriously disfigured by striking out the provision requiring a hunter's gun license of one dollar per annum. Out of this revenue it was expected to support the State Fish and Game Wardens of the state and when this item was struck out the commission lost all interest in the bill. The house, however, left in the requirement of a $25 license for nonresident hunters. The proviso that fishermen should obtain written permission from riparian holders before "whipping the waters" of any stream was also cut out. The American eagle was protected as a game bird. An amendment was added to prohibit the use of trot lines in lakes and reservoirs. The bill was referred back to the Committee on County Affairs with the amendments pending.

QUIET TODAY

BUT BRUSSELS MAY SEE MORE TROUBLE TONIGHT

Police Preparing For Further Disturbances—Two Socialists Died of Injuries Today—Situation.

Brussels, April 12.—Two of the socialists, who were injured in the riot at midnight last night, died today.

Brussels, April 12.—The streets are again quiet today with but few signs of rioting of the past few days. The police however, feel that the trouble is not over by any means and are preparing for extra disturbances tonight and tomorrow.

Brussels, April 12.—The streets are again quiet today with but few signs of rioting of the past few days. The police however, feel that the trouble is not over by any means and are preparing for extra disturbances tonight and tomorrow.

Brussels, April 12.—The Government has declared that it will declare martial law if the disorders do not cease by Monday.

The sitting of the Chamber of Deputies was characterized by violent scenes. The Premier, Count de Maey, referring to the deplorable events said:

"The appeal of the Socialists to the population proves that it is their avowed plan to continue the struggle, even after Parliament has pronounced on the revision bill. Their is the de-thronement of power and the triumph of revolution. The government is resolved that the debate on the revision bill shall occur, in spite of the assertions of the 'Monteur Socialists' to the contrary."

At this point in the Premier's speech violent altercations, which nearly led to blows, arose between the deputies of the opposing parties. Liberal Socialists engaged in a sharp discussion concerning the agreement concluded between them for the defense of universal suffrage, and M. Demblen, a Socialist, shouted:

"We are betrayed!"
At the close of the sitting Socialist Deputies, shouting "Jesuit Thief," stormed the President's tribune. Ushers were then summoned to preserve order and a violent scene ensued, in which blows were freely exchanged.

After the chamber was cleared members of the Left party and Socialists proceeded to the Maison du peuple with the intention of persuading the people to cease their demonstration until next week. The maison was surrounded by the civic guard, but a meeting was permitted to be held inside. M. Van Der Velder and other speakers at the meeting advocated that the people remain calm and have recourse to a general strike next week if the Government used force. As the persons who attended the meeting were dispersing, and in spite of the precaution of permitting only a few of them to leave at one time, conflicts with the police occurred. Mounted gendarmes cleared the streets and many of the demonstrators fired their revolvers.

During the evening there were several other outbreaks in the city. The police charged the rioters, and about 25 persons were wounded. Many others were arrested. All those arrested were armed with revolvers.

Wooster's New Buildings.

Wooster, Ohio, April 12.—Bids for construction of the new main building for the University of Wooster were opened Friday. The bid of Henry Schleutner of Chicago was the lowest, $97,000 and the committee awarded him the contract. Schleutner also closed a contract for the erection of Academy Hall, at $43,000, the buildings to be completed by September 1.

CHESS TOURNAMENT.

The city championship Chess Tournament has made little progress this week, the score now standing: Banton 1, Nevins 4½, Berger 1, Brice 1½, McCahon 2, Parkinson 3, Stephan 1, Tannysbill 3.

The first round in the Y. M. C. A. tournament shows the following: Crilly 2, Parkinson 3, Fitzgerald 3, Helm 2, Nevins 2, Williams ½, Suter 1, Percy ½.

The second round stands as follows: Crilly 1, Fitzgerald 3, Helm 1½, Peck 2½, Parkinson 2, Nevins 2, Percy 1.

The Sporting World

The High Jump Champion.
S. S. Jones of the New York university and New York Athletic club is the intercollegiate champion at high jumping. Jones is a splendidly built athlete, standing more than six feet high in his stocking feet, and his opinions on the art of clearing the stick should be of interest to every athlete in the land. He says:

"Almost any young man with ambition can excel in some branch of athletics. What he wants to do is to find out just what comes easiest to him."

"I began 'gym' work when fifteen years old, and it wasn't long before I discovered that the high jump was my forte. I was greatly aided by my height, which even at that age was exceptional. I soon became able to clear the bar at 5 feet 2 inches. Two years later I captured the interscholastic championship with a spring of 5 feet 10 inches. That shows how rapidly I improved. Since that time I have kept on increasing my power.

"When jumping six feet or more, the landing becomes very important. Carelessness may tear a ligament or sprain an ankle. Always land in a crouching position, facing the bar."

"It is necessary to jump to your limit once in awhile to be accustomed to a good height. A month before a contest I try myself out and do this weekly until the great event comes off."

With the Amateur Oarsmen.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen held recently in New York the national regatta was awarded to Worcester, Mass. In response to requests for bids the Quinsigamond Athletic association of Worcester was the only bidder. The committee voted to accept the bid, and the regatta will be held Aug. 8 and 9 on Lake Quinsigamond.

The committee unanimously endorsed the entry of C. S. Titus of the Union Boat club of New York to the royal Henley regatta, England. Titus' amateur standing was certified by the committee to meet the standard required by the Henley stewards as well as that of the N. A. A. O. Secretary Fred Portmeyer has sent Titus' entry over.

Cyclists Use "Dope."

So general has been the use of drugs by the bicycle riders during the winter season that it is beginning to tell on some of them. It is even said that some riders are using the stuff while training. The "dope" used is usually a fifth of a grain of strychnine, it is said, which quantity has to be gradually increased. It quickens the heart action, but is no aid in gaining strength.

Rebellious "Wild Bill."

To get "Wild Bill" Hanrahan in shape for a fight requires the constant attendance of several handlers. Bill is inclined to ignore training rules. Joe Sullivan, Hanrahan's manager, never left the pugilist while he was training for Joe Chorynski.

Where Cyclists Train.

Eddie Bald and MacFarland, cycle riders, are training at Hot Springs, Ark. Other riders who will do training there are Fenn, Maya, Freeman and Lester Wilson.

Baseball Chitchat.

Cy Young is out with the statement that he will depend largely upon a slow ball this season.

Barney Dreyfuss has already begun the erection of a new flagpole from which the National league pennant is expected to float this summer.

It is now reported that the Boston club of the National league made an unsuccessful effort to secure Roger Bresnahan from Baltimore during the winter.

Detroit fans are somewhat skeptical as to whether the recent raising of prices in the American league will prove successful at the City of the Straits.

Manager Horace Fogel of New York has lauded the clever young pitcher Frank Sparks of last season's Milwaukee team, who refused to be transferred to St. Louis except at a salary increase which McAleer considered exorbitant.

Joe Kelley says that the reputation of President Johnson's ideas on the deportment of the players had preceded him, and the new Oriole magnate states that he will endeavor to give the league executive as little trouble as possible this season.

Owner Hedges of the new St. Louis Browns, in announcing his plans for Comiskey day at St. Louis, said that the principal thing on the programme was to "do Comiskey." The old Roman would almost prefer to lose a pennant rather than lose the game which will mark the first appearance of the White Stockings on Comiskey's old stamping grounds. The owner of the American champions says that Hedges has another guess.

"DOC" NORTON IS NOW PROUD OF MR. M'GILL

THE YOUNG MAN WHO ELOPED WITH HIS DAUGHTER

AT FIRST HE WAS INDIGNANT

But a Little Incident in a Washington Hotel is Said to Have Changed Things—The Story.

Washington, April 12.—This is a story of two young and loving hearts, an elopement, a stern and unforgiving parent and sequel. The story had its beginning several weeks ago, when the pretty and petite daughter of Representative "Doc" Norton of Tiffin eloped to Alexandria, across the Potomac river in Virginia, and was married to Mr. Wm. Reed McGill, a young man of Washington. Representative Norton was exceedingly angry when he received a telephone message from his daughter, announcing that she had been married, and though he did not turn his daughter from his door, his son-in-law found little favor in his eyes.

So much for the story—an interesting and pretty romance, but in no wise unusual. The sequel has just transpired.

"Doc" Norton lives, when in Washington, at the Hotel Raleigh, and there Mr. and Mrs. McGill likewise have made their home. Among other guests at the hotel during a great part of the winter has been Mr. T. E. Whitney of New York. This Mr. Whitney is said to be a nephew of Wm. C. Whitney, former secretary of the navy and several times a millionaire but the fact of relationship lacks verification. Be this as it may, the Mr. Whitney who has been a guest at the Raleigh has had the appearance of being well-endowed with this world's goods. In addition to his wealth he has another claim to distinction in his very unusual appearance. He is of about average height and weight but a great mass of wavy golden hair adorns his head, and his dainty feet the size of which any woman might well envy, are invariably incased in the finest of patent leather slippers with heels of wondrous height. In the evening, when the orchestra plays, he is the center of interest in the hotel lobby.

It was an evening early in the present week; the usual crowd had assembled in the lobby, the orchestra playing a dreamy waltz, and Mr. Whitney of New York was on parade, the object of observation of all observers.

Among others in the lobby were Mr. and Mrs. McGill. The facts leading up to the climax are in dispute. Mr. McGill says Mr. Whitney looked at Mrs. McGill in an offensive way. Whitney denies that any offense was intended.

As to the climax, however, there is no dispute. Whitney ceased his parading when confronted by Mr. McGill. The latter's right arm shot out straight from the shoulder, it landed squarely on the nose of the man in front of him, and Mr. Whitney of New York sprang his length on the hotel floor, his immaculate costume disheveled, his golden hair awry and the blood streaming from his nose.

And now comes the most interesting part of the tale. The son-in-law who failed to find favor has become at once a pride and a joy to the congressman from Tiffin. He has decided that a young man who would in this vigorous manner resent an affront to a lady has a good deal of manhood in his makeup, and he is glad to have people know the stalwart young McGill as his son-in-law.

WE ARE NOT ALARMISTS!

Would Simply Direct Your Attention to Serious Symptoms Experienced by Thousands.

They Truly Indicate Terrible and Deadly Kidney Disease.

PAINE'S Celery Compound

Has Cured the Most Desperate Cases and Will Assuredly Banish Your Trouble.

While we would not play the part of alarmists, and seek to frighten people by declaring that a large majority of them are already victims of kidney diseases, and liable to be hurried into untimely graves by them, still the very noticeable increase of kidney diseases in recent years, and their virulent power, is a subject that is constantly engaging the attention of the ablest medical investigators.

Have you pain in the small of the back, dull, dragging nature, but often acute and severe? Is the urine in a disordered state, sometimes pale in color and very copious, at other times high colored and scanty, with brick sediment or with settling of mucous, offensive and foul smelling? Have you a general feeling of lassitude and weakness? Do you recognize the fact that you are unable to perform the amount of mental or physical work that you got through with months ago?

Any one of the symptoms mentioned point unmistakably to deadly kidney disease in some form. Do not delay until it is too late. If you value life begin this very day with Paine's Celery Compound; it is your only hope of success and safety. By the use of this wonderful remedy, tens of thousands are now enjoying perfect health who once were victims of treacherous kidney diseases. Read carefully the testimony of Mr. Albert Bowers, 81 North 18th St., Newark, N. J.:

"Some two years ago I suffered with kidney disease, during which time I had two doctors, neither of whom could do me any good. It was not until I used Paine's Celery Compound that I found relief. I had no strength, energy, or ambition, was nervous and irritable. I was all run down and lost about forty pounds. I felt that the end was near, when a friend suggested Paine's Celery Compound, and I have this great medicine to thank for my restoration to health."

HISTORIC EFFECTS.

Clever Mediators Utilize the Fashions of Past Days.

The smartest and newest wrap of the moment is undoubtedly Japanese, not always in color, but certainly in cut.

One of the most stylish dust-cloaks or traveling wraps the year has brought forth is of brown canvas, with sleeves, revers and upper collar strapped with brown and black silk on a white cloth ground. In shape it closely suggests a mandarin's robe, only improved by a suggestion of up to date smartness in the collar. The influence of the modern tailor is seen in the strapped seams, which are decorated with the brown and black silk on the white cloth. The same idea carried out in glorious Japanese coloring would form an ideal opera wrap lined with fox.

The resurrection of past modes is clearly to be discerned in the spring fashions. Are we not using the Tudor sleeve, the Elizabethan ruffle and the Puritan collar with equal impartiality? The skill in adapting these old world fashions to modern purposes says much for the talents of the up to date modiste.

A PLAIN TAILOR MADE.

A plain but smart model in a tailor made is here shown. It could be equally well carried out in linen pique or any of the new cotton weaves. The jacket is collarless, with a military strap on the shoulder of a darker shade and a fancy effect down the front also of the same shade. The jacket is Eton in front, but extends below the hips on the sides and back. The sleeves are very wide at the wrists. The skirt is plain with the exception of three straps on either side of the front gore. The little buttons are of silver.

THE LATEST IN MILLINERY.

Lace Draped Brims—Revival of Barret Straws.

The hats of the hour are extremely pretty, there being a greater tendency than ever to drape the brims with lace and embroidery. Chenille and straw mixtures are being worn very much just now, and there is a revival of the burnt straws of one or two seasons ago. These are threaded through with black ribbon or with velvet or glace ribbons. This revival is quite in accord with the craze for ecrú shades, added to which burnt straw is very useful for everyday wear and lends itself admirably to the completion of the tailor made frock. It requires to be re-lined, however, with a fair amount of black, for a yellowish tint over the face is becoming to few indeed.

It is a pretty notion to line the hat brim with a contrasting color, and black near the face is always safe. The draping of black or cream lace over the hard edge of a brim has a softening and delightful effect.

There is a craze for spring flowers, while the smartest French millinery is trimmed with fruits of all kinds.

A serviceable three cornered hat for everyday wear is the one in the illustration. It is made of burnt straw with a black underbrim. It is trimmed with wide moire ribbon run through a long buckle in front and having a wide bow and ends in the back.

DON'T DELAY

It is "Putting Off" Till Some Other Day That Causes so Many Sudden Deaths.

Be sure you need a medicine before you take it, but having once found out that you need it, lose not time in getting the best. If its for the kidneys, liver, bladder or blood, rheumatism, dyspepsia, chronic constipation, or the weaknesses peculiar to women, the best is Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and a very simple way to find out if you need it, is to put some urine in a glass tumbler and let it stand 24 hours; if it has a sediment or a milky, cloudy appearance; if it is ropy or stringy, pale or discolored, you do not need a physician to tell you that your kidneys and bladder are badly affected.

The Rev Theodore Hunter, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Greensburg, Ky., writes us the following:

"It gives me much pleasure to state that I have received great benefit from the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. Some time ago I had a severe attack of kidney trouble, but a few bottles of 'Favorite Remedy' have entirely removed the malady."

"Favorite Remedy" speedily cures such dangerous symptoms as pain in the back, frequent desire to urinate especially at night, burning scalding pain in passing water, the staining of linen by your urine and all the unpleasant and dangerous effects produced on the system by the use of whiskey and beer.

Cold in Chest Omega Oil

You hear a good deal of the great progress in medical science, but there hasn't been so much progress after all. The doctors have not been able to improve on many of the simple old remedies used during the last hundred years. Every mother knows that old-fashioned sweet oil is a good thing to rub on the nose, throat and chest for a cold, and a doctor can't prescribe anything better or safer except Omega Oil. This Oil does all that sweet oil can do, and besides that it contains other ingredients that check and cure a cold in a wonderfully short time. It can be used on children with perfect safety, as it does not blister. A bottle in the house all the time may save a life or a doctor's bill.

Omega Oil is good for everything a Rubment ought to be good for.

AMUSEMENTS.

Many staunch Americans are bewailing the fact that English plays are often presented in this country, while the products of our American playwrights are seldom in demand in Great Britain. Such persons will doubtless be gratified to learn that "The Princess Chic" has been many times sought by the management of the Adelphi Theatre, London. Kirke La Shelle, the proprietor of the piece, has a double interest in this opera comique in that he is also the librettist, and he therefore will not consent to have "The Princess Chic" produced in London with other than the present American cast. However, another one of Kirke La Shelle's attractions, "Arizona," is now playing at the Adelphi, and it is officially announced that this is to be followed by "The Princess Chic." The exact date upon which Londoners may have opportunity to pass judgment upon this opera comique cannot be foretold, because present indications are that "Arizona" will continue for an indefinite time in the British metropolis. So favorable is the impression created everywhere by "The Princess Chic" that it is a matter of universal gratification that the piece will be seen in this city. The date announced is Saturday night April 19.

WALLER PLEADS

HIS OWN CASE BEFORE COURT AT MANILLA.

Believes He Was Right in Shooting the Natives Without Trial—The Major's Statement.

Manilla, April 12—Major Littleton W. Waller of the Marine corps, on trial by courtmartial, charged with executing Samar natives without trial, addressed the court yesterday. The major said he was either right or wrong in his actions, and added that he desired to cite five precedents which came under the head of his own case. He alluded to the naval battle at Santiago and the humanity he had shown to Spaniards who were captured, and said he had many letters from Spaniards thanking him for the kindness he had shown them.

The major said that in 1882 he was with the British forces in Egypt where Arabs captured pickets of Bengal cavalry, decapitated the prisoners and placed their heads on poles. Afterward all the Arabs who were caught were shot without trial.

During the campaign in China the Chinese mutilated the dead and tortured the wounded to death. Consequently when a Boxer or a fanatic was captured he was executed immediately. This was true in the case of the troop of every nation in China. It was true during the three weeks he commanded the Americans there, and the same thing occurred later, when he was no longer in command. No protest was made and he had every right to believe that his acts were approved, so far as the American forces were approved by those of other nations.

"It is impossible to conceive such treachery as that of the natives of Samar," said the major. "They revel in blood and have an appetite for wanton sacrifice of the human body. These fiends stole Captain Cornell's class ring, filled the soldiers' bodies with jam and jellies and attempted to murder my command. I shot them. I honestly thought then that I was right, and I believe so now. Neither my people nor the world will believe me to be a murderer."

Captain Arthur T. Marx, Marine corps, representing Major Waller, in a forceful argument, maintained that Waller's actions were justified by martial law, quoting numerous authorities on the subject. Captain Marx also said he regretted very much that the prosecution had seen fit to call General Smith. He claimed that all the testimony went to show that the major was justified.

At the close of the arguments for the defense the general feeling was that the result of the trial will be the acquittal of the major. The judge advocate, Major Henry P. Kingsbury, of the Third cavalry will reply today.

PE-RU-NA CURES CATARRH OF KIDNEYS EVERY TIME.

DANGEROUS KIDNEY DISEASES CURED

Peruna Creating a National Sensation in the Cure of Chronic Ailments of the Kidneys.

Mr. John Vance, of Hartford City, Ind., says: "My kidney trouble is much better. I have improved so much that everybody wants to know what medicine I am using. I recommend Peruna to everybody and some have commenced to use it. The folks all say that if Dr. Hartman's medicine cures me it must be great."—JOHN VANCE.

Mr. J. Brake, of Petrolia, Ontario, Canada, writes: "Four years ago I had a severe attack of Bright's Disease, which brought me so low the doctor said nothing more could be done for me. I began to take Peruna and Manilla, and in three months I was a well man, and have continued so ever since."—J. Brake.

At the appearance of the first symptom of kidney trouble, Peruna should be taken. This remedy strikes at once the very root of the disease. It at once relieves the catarrhal kidneys of the stagnant blood, preventing the escape of serum from the blood. Peruna stimulates the kidneys to excrete from the blood the accumulating poison, and thus prevents the convulsions which are sure to follow if the poisons are allowed to remain. It gives great vigor to the heart's action and digestive system, both of which are apt to fail rapidly in this disease.

DROPPING IN THE THROAT.

asal Catarrh in all its Stages
a Menace to General Health.

lood Wine Heals the Diseased
Membranes—a Modern Treatment Endorsed by all Physicians.

When catarrh of the head gets to a stage where the discharge runs down the nasal passages and drops into the throat it has reached the danger point. If you wait until it goes that far don't go any further—for the next place attacked is the bronchial tubes and the lungs. Catarrh undoubtedly causes more trouble than anything else, and like a smoldering fire it must be treated through the blood. Local applications at best only serve to work out the discharges. They don't get at the root of the trouble, and sometimes, quite often, they irritate the inflamed outer face, and aggravate the disease. Blood Wine passes into the blood and cleans it.

be poisonous matters, which keeps the membranes of the head and respiratory organs, are filtered, passed out of system and the diseased parts heal to stay healed. It will stop the dropping in the throat and all discharges, open the breath, relieve the irritation in the nasal passages, throat and windpipe. It overcomes the burning, smarting sensation in the eyes. It removes obstructions in the head, and makes eating easy and enables you to stop itching and scraping.

ne of the many people who have been cured of catarrh, and owes it to "Blood Wine" is Mr. M. Curtis, a prominent manufacturer and contractor, Boston, who lives on Waters Avenue, West, Mass., and he says: "I have been completely cured of catarrh. This is an awful climate for it; everyone is affected by it more or less and I had it for years. It grew on me and was plainly ruining my health. I used many remedies, but none did me any good. I tried 'Blood Wine' and in three days the discharge stopped. I used it for a few more days and it was gone. I am a great help in the family. ## LODGE NEWS

Home Guards of America. Newark Home, No. 34, held a regular meeting Thursday evening, which was well attended and very enthusiastic throughout. A class of four candidates was initiated and five applications were referred to the committee. Newark Home will give a box social on Thursday evening, April 17. District Deputy Brother C. E. Hill of Columbus, will be present. A fine program is being prepared by the ladies of the Home for the evening's entertainment; also drawing of number for the prize, a fine quilt made by the ladies of Newark Home. All are cordially invited.

Odd Fellows. The state assembly of Rebekahs convened in Findlay Tuesday and continued in session until Friday. Mrs. Emma Bell, state secretary and many other Columbus ladies were in attendance. The report of Mrs. Bell shows that at the beginning of the year there were 405 lodges in good standing, a gain during the year of 15; charters reclaimed, 4; lodges now working, 416. The total membership December, 1900 was 27,287; admitted during 1901, 4258; decreased during the year by being dropped, expelled, death and defunct lodges, 2535; net gain, 1993. Total membership, December 31, 1901, 29,280. Total receipts during the year were $32,699.83; total assets December 31, 1901, $31,877.18.

The Odd Fellows of this District composed of Lodges Nos. 34, 192, 350, 523, 733, 777 and 850, will hold a district meeting in I. O. O. F. temple of this city Tuesday afternoon, April 22. In the evening there will be degree work. St. Louisville Lodge No. 850 will put the initiatory on the floor. Perryton Lodge No. 733 will put the third degree on the floor, followed by a banquet given by Olive Branch and Newark lodges.

A. O. U. W. Golden Rod Lodge No. 100 at its regular meeting next Monday evening will have work in both degrees. Arbutus Lodge No. 12, Degree of Honor will hold its regular meeting next Tuesday evening. There will be several candidates for initiation and a large attendance is desired.

Ben Hur. Alpha Court No. 51, Tribe of Ben Hur, met on Thursday evening and transacted the usual routine business. At the next meeting of the Court to be held on April 24, a class of five or six candidates will be initiated.

Knights of Pythias. At the meeting of Newark Lodge, No. 13, Knights of Pythias, held on Thursday evening there was a good attendance of the members and considerable business of importance was transacted. Among other things the Esquire rank was conferred on two candidates.

Royal Arcanum. At the meeting of Bayard Taylor Council to be held Monday evening, there will be initiatory works. As this is the last meeting of the Council before the meeting of the Grand Council there will be some important matters to be considered.

Independent Order of Foresters. On next Monday evening Court Licking 1318 will hold a public meeting at which the public is invited to be present. An excellent program, consisting of music and literary exercises, has been prepared. The speakers of the evening will be Rev. J. C. Schindel, who is a member of the order, and W. G. Phillips, D. S. C. K. of Cleveland. All members are requested to be present and bring their families and friends. Everything free. Don't fail to be present. The object of the meeting is to increase the membership and start a companion court.

American Protective Union, Newark Council, No. 1, will hold its regular meeting on Tuesday, April 15th, at 7:30 p. m. at K. P. Hall. All members are requested to be present as Captain Blizzard expects to start the Degree Team in full and other business of importance is to be transacted.

Banner Council No. 1 Ladies Auxiliary of the American Protective Union held their regular meeting last Tuesday with a full attendance of the members. A class of ten new candidates were instructed in the mysteries of the first degree. After all the business was completed lunch was served by the officers of the council, much to the surprise and appreciation of all the members.

Masonic.

At the regular meeting of Acme Lodge 554 F. & A. M. held last Thursday evening there was a full attendance of members and a number of visiting Masons were present from all parts of the county. It was the occasion of the annual inspection of the lodge which was done by Mr. A. F. Crayton, the district lecturer. Work was done in the Entered Apprentice and Master degrees and received the commendation of all present for its efficiency. The Master, J. L. Worth, is certainly entitled to credit for the good showing of Acme Lodge. After the work a banquet was served in the rooms. All present had a most enjoyable time.

Newark Lodge No. 97 F. & A. M. held a special meeting last evening at which the Master's degree was conferred. There was a good attendance and considering the meeting of the evening before it was a creditable turnout and speaks well for the interest taken by the members in the ### Missionary Meeting.

The missionary meeting at the Fourth Street Church of Christ, Thursday was largely attended, and a fine program was carried out. The topic for the meeting was "The Conquest of Mexico for Christ." Julia Williams gave a talk on "Mexico and its people." Gwendolyn Ramey recited "The Mexican Maiden Message," and a recitation by Irene Hill entitled "Voice of the Stars." A missionary exercise by fourteen children of the Mission Band, assisted by the Superintendent, "The Claim that Binds India," was an impressive lesson. This was followed by a duet by Miss Pearl Tawney and Mrs. Foster. The society has completed another missionary year and will be able to send in a good report to the State Convention.

We have secured a place on the honor roll by the payment of national and state dues to the amount of $126.00. Our present enrollment of members is 80. At the last state convention it was voted that Ohio C. W. B. M. should open a new mission station in India. Our apportionment for this work was $25. We have raised $30. By so doing we are entitled to one life membership in the Christian Woman's Board of Missions. A vote by ballot was taken to decide who should receive it. The count showed a liberal majority for the President, Mrs. A. B. McDonald, who appreciates and thanks the society for this courtesy.

WOODLAND FOLK-LORE

By Cecelia Rose

Copyright, 1902, by W. L. Vail

THE skillful woodsman needs no compass, for he can get his bearings on the cloudiest day or the darkest night by "the feel of the bark" on trees or by "the lean of the bush." The heat of the sun and the fury of the north winds incline trees and bushes alike to the south. This is particularly noticeable in tall trees standing out in the open. Again, it is commonly observed that the bark on the north side of trees is rougher than on the south side. On elms, oaks and maples moss grows on the north side, forming a furry coat against the biting blasts of winter. The sap is warmed up by the sun, and in the spring sugar makers tap the maples on the south side or wherever the sun can best act on the frozen spring of sweetness, usually the southwest.

Don't run to the woods or seek the shelter of tall trees during a thunderstorm. Such is the advice of a veteran of the fields. If caught in the woods in a storm, look for a cave or an overhanging rock under which protection may be found. Lightning strikes the tallest trees. In the absence of caves or large rocks the safest way is to crouch under a low bush or tree with stout, widespread branches. There the limbs and trees blown down by the storm may be avoided.

Hickory and chestnut trees are scattered throughout forests usually and do not form groves by themselves. A chestnut grove is the ideal for shade and for a playground. The branches are large and spread laterally from the trunk, fairly inviting the youth to play and climb.

In pine groves there is seldom any undergrowth. The soil is very springy and light. Usually the trees stand so closely together that the ground is comparatively dry even after a prolonged downpour. Snakes and wild animals less frequently haunt these groves because of the lack of undergrowth and hiding places from each other.

Nervous persons should always examine small moss covered rocks and decayed logs before using them for seats. They may be the lurking places for snakes and other undesirable company.

Poison ivy usually chooses damp ground for its home, along stone walls and large sheltering rocks, though it is also found clinging to old trees in dense forests. The leaves grow in clusters of three. Poison ivy is with difficulty distinguished from the harmless variety, and the safest way for a novice is to let all stray vines alone.

Wild animals know by instinct when there is a man with a gun in the woods. Squirrels are particularly knowing in this respect. "The only way to kill a squirrel is to shoot him right in the face and be quick about it. Even then you may not hit him."

If lost in the woods at night, the best thing to do is to make a small clearing.

PENN'S TREASY TREE AT PHILADELPHIA.

build a rousing campfire to keep away wild animals, gather some boughs for a couch and lie down "with your sole to the east." If a searching party is out, they'll see the light from the fire or smell the smoke and thus be guided toward you. If you are not among friends, the fire will keep you safely over night, and you'll arise with the sun, invigorated and ready for a fresh start after a good night's rest. With the sun as a guide you can easily find your way out of the woods, whereas after dark you are more likely to walk "round and round in a circle."

Undergrowth is always thickest and most verdant in the vicinity of water. One may drink freely from all forest springs and running streams. The only water to be avoided is that of stagnant ponds and pools. In emergencies even this may be partaken of sparingly, but under no circumstance should it be taken without first having been filtered through cloth. For this purpose use a handkerchief, a part of the shirt sleeve or any cloth convenient. If a felt hat is worn, it will make the best filter. However, be careful the situation may appear, always direct your supreme effort toward "keeping cool." Don't lose your head. Ninety-nine out of a hundred lives lost result from persons losing their heads. The wood-man's motto is, "Don't get rattled."

THE W. C. T. U.

At the meeting held on Tuesday, April 8, the devotional half hour was led by Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Cool presided at the organ.

Considering the inclemency of the weather a goodly number were present, and promptly at three o'clock the President, Mrs. Sisson, called the meeting to order.

After the minutes of the preceding meetings had been read and approved the program for the next six months were presented to the Union by the committee, which were accepted with thanks.

Mrs. Burge gave a very good report of the railroad meetings at the B. & O. shops every month. A request has been made that these meetings be held semi-monthly.

On next Tuesday afternoon there will be a Mothers' meeting under the supervision of Mrs. B. F. Patt, when the following program will be rendered: Devotional, Bible reading on "Peace," Music, "When the Sand Man Comes," by Mrs. C. M. Hare. A Snap Shot From a Mental Kodak," Mrs. Anderson. "Boys and Girls in Texas—What Shall They do," Mrs. Dr. Larimore. Discussion, led by Mrs. C. C. Metz. Mothers and all others interested in child culture are cordially invited to be present. At the close of the program refreshments will be served.

For three weeks in March, Rev. Ray Palmer of Chillicothe, Mo., has been conducting the Willard Hall Noonday meetings, and his work for the Hall and for converts has been most tireless. God has rewarded his efforts in the conversion of more than three dozen souls and truly this month has the Hall been a great lifesaving station, not alone the altar at which have knelt those tempted by the appetite of strong drink, but from here also the moralist and those who have simply neglected Christ have started as soldiers of His Army.

"I gave my heart to God here yesterday and I have come back today to tell you that for one day at least He has kept me. I intend to hold on to Him, and I shall trust that in His strength I may be kept from drink. I have tried cures of other sorts and they have failed or I have failed through them. I want to be a better man and I want you all here in Willard Hall to pray for me."

THIEF CAUGHT

Mr. Hull Filled an Egg with Strichnine and the Result Was All He Expected.

Mrs. Eli Hull, who lives in the West End, is quite a raiser of chickens. She noticed for some past, however, that some thing or some body had been entering her henry at night and sucking valuable eggs. Mr. Hull told his wife that he would fix the nocturnal marauder, and he broke a small hole in an egg and administered a pretty liberal dose of strichnine in the egg. Friday on repairing to the henry an old opossum was found stretched out dead from the effects of the poison, with six young ones dead by her side.

JUMPED TRACK

AND MOTORMAN W. C. RUNKLE WAS BADLY HURT.

Several Passengers in the Car Were Shaken Up But None Injured. How It Happened.

W. C. Runkle, a motorman on the Newark and Granville electric road, narrowly escaped fatal injuries about four o'clock Friday afternoon at the corner of Williams and Main street. Runkle was on motor No. 1, conductor Cady, and was running north on Williams street toward Main. He did not slacken the speed of the car sufficiently to make the curve in safety, and the car shot off at a tangent, going across the street to the sidewalk in front of J. V. Hilliard's residence, when it struck a telephone pole, crushing the front end of the car.

Runkle stayed on the car, and was badly hurt. Both wrists were sprained, his face and head cut, one thumb broken, and his hips injured. It is not known if there are any more serious injuries, but it is hoped there are not.

The injured man was picked up in an unconscious condition, and carried into a nearby house, where Dr. J. G. Bowers attended him. He was afterward taken to his home on Fourth street opposite the fire department.

There were eight passengers on the car, but besides a shaking up, none were seriously injured.

CITY HOSPITAL

DR. KING DOESN'T FAVOR OLD GRAVEYARD PROPERTY

Reasons are Given Why Hospital Should be Located Elsewhere—The Doctor's Card.

(Communicated.)

As our people "have decided this question of a new hospital by an overwhelming majority in the affirmative at the ballot box, it is to be sincerely hoped that no mistake will be made in determining just where and what part of our beautiful city this hospital shall be located. We think that there should be a free opportunity offered to all of our people to express their opinions on the subject, and we think the best way to do this is through the columns of the press. Nor should our authorities be too hasty in taking action upon a subject of such vital importance. There are many things to be taken into consideration before the question is decided definitely.

In the first place, we should not fail to take into account that we are building this hospital, not for today, or for this year or for next, but for many years to come. Our city is rapidly growing in population, in every direction, and as a consequence the location should be selected, not in the heart or leading thoroughfare as our city now stands, but we should look to the future as well when our city will have doubled its population as it will most certainly do within the next twenty years.

All the leading hospitals that are now being built in our large cities today are located in some beautiful suburb away from the din of city life. A hospital is a place where all kinds of cases are treated—those suffering from nervous troubles, as well as injuries received by accidents of various kinds. Now we all know that these cases require that in order that their recovery should be permanent that they should be in a quarter where there should be as little noise as possible to disturb their repose. This can only be accomplished where the hospital, and its surroundings as well, should be in a portion of our city least exposed to these annoyances.

Some one has suggested that the ground formerly used for a city graveyard, on West Main street, should be selected as a site; that a title can be given to the city which will be satisfactory. Well, be that as it may, we do not wish to purchase a site, where there will be ever a question raised as to its ownership. Nor do we think this is a proper place for the location of the hospital. It is entirely too noisy, and besides it is not centrally located. The street cars pass constantly in front and rear of it every few moments both night and day, so that it would very materially disturb the rest of patients, who were troubled with nervous and other diseases. As we have before stated it should be located on the outskirts of the city, away from the noise and turmoil of city life. There are many places of this character to be found at different parts of our city, any of which to our minds would be far preferable to a location within the city limits.

We have thrown out here a few practical hints giving our views upon this subject, hoping that others will follow suit and express their preferences upon this subject which we consider of vital importance to us all. Let us then use the utmost discretion in selecting the site for our new City Hospital, and when we build it let us build one that will be an ornament for all coming time to our beautiful city, and which will remain a lasting monument to poor suffering humanity.

C. P. KING.

CONJUROR'S HOUSE.

Mr. Stewart Edward White has just completed for the Saturday Evening Post, of Philadelphia a stirring serial story of love and Adventure in the Northwest. The tale is Entitled Conjuror's House: A Romance of the Free Forest. The scene is laid at an isolated outpost of the Hudson Bay Company, and the characters are a devil-may-care young soldier of fortune, the old factor and his beautiful daughter. This fascinating story will begin in the Saturday Evening Post for April 19th.

UNTRAINED TASTE.

She—"What horrid taste that Mrs. Bloomin' has!"
He—"Why, I thought she was an especially well-dressed woman."
She—"Oh, she's well-dressed enough, but just think of her wearing a red hat on a yellow railroad car."

KINDLINESS.

Marjorie—"It's my firm belief that in dealing with men it is always better to coax than to try to drive them."
Ethel—"Oh, of course. I should hate awfully to use force against a husband."

DEFINITIVE.

Teller—"I'd have you know, sir, that I'm a doctor."
Shorter—"Huh! Doctor, are you? Horse or tooth?"

UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

She—"Now, dear, do try to be polite to papa."
He—"Well, I'll try. But it's pretty hard when you have to be guarding and side-stepping all the time."

OPPORTUNITY.

The Fireman (bursting into room)—"Come on downstairs, lady, the hotel's on fire."
Actress Guest—"Oh, couldn't you take me down the fire-escape or extension-ladder? The stairway's so common."

MOST IMPORTANT.

Annoyed Villager—"Why, I bought a ticket for a ball only last week to buy instruments for the band."
Screen Marshal—"Well, you see, this ball is to buy 'em a dummy set to learn

"I'm going to take a rest! I'll travel."

"Here, hustle me up a tourist outfit, quick!"

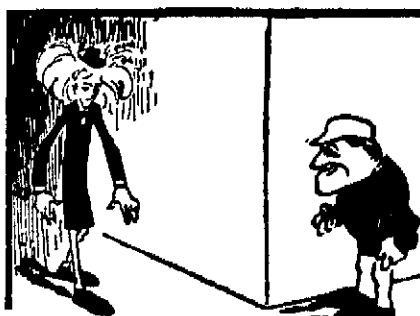

"Hi, there! Get those trunks aboard that boat. Lively!"

"Be careful! Don't smash anything in those boxes."

"All right. You can start your boat. I'm aboard."

"Ouch! But you don't seem to know who I am!"

UNDERESTIMATED.

Kid Seakem—"I think dat planner spleier has a big wad of mun in his pocket. He had a full house dis evenin' an' I'll just take it away from de poor, weak cuss."

Professor (musingly)—"Crescendo."

"Fortissimo."

"Loud pedal—Anale."

ON DANGEROUS GROUND.

Elsie—"I should refuse to accept any man unless he were daring and reckless."
Jerome—"Oh, it's all right for a fellow to be daring and all that, but there are some dangers a man would be a fool to court."

CONUNDRUM.

Bald Customer (to barber)—"What would I like on my head? Aw, come off! What do bald people usually prefer on the top?"

CORRECTED.

Cholly—"Suppose we go over to the alley and bowl?"
Molly—"Sir! What do you mean by such an invitation? If you wish to rush the growler, why not send my brother Bill?"

INTUITION.

Fanner (to new hand)—"Here, what are you doing to that horse?"
Disguised College Chump—"Why, you told me to give him some corn in the ear, but he doesn't seem to want it that way."

IN PURSUIT OF SCIENCE.

Prof. Bughunter—"Ah! A rare bug on those flowers. I must—"

"Secure it. Fle, fle! A palpable miss, and—"

"I shall evidently have to try in some other locality."

FAITHFUL AUTO.

REFRACTORY.

O'Conn—"Stop in yer tracks, Mike! Don't move, man!"
O'Mann—"Sure now, Mike, what was that for?"
O'Conn—"Why, that was me landlord that passed. D'ye think I'd place him by movin'?"

OBTAINING RESULTS.

Physical Culture College Statistician—"Oh, dear! I can never get a satisfactory measurement on that flat-chested student. I must try a little tact."

"Good evening, sir. I've just been reading one of your essays and I think it is simply magnificent."

"Oh, don't mention it. I'll take your chest measurement right now, if you please. Don't move; just stay as you are. Thanks. Fine! Very fine, sir!"

IN TSUNGCHOW.

Robbers—"There's old Tin Hang, with his money box."

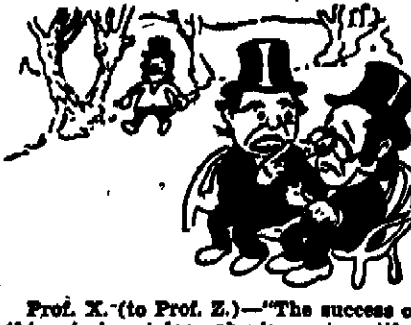

"S'pose we tie his cue to this branch and—"

"Make a take?"

UNFORTUNATE OCCURRENCE.

Prof. X. (to Prof. Z.)—"The success of this wireless telegraphy is most gratifying."

Stranger—"I have here, gentlemen, a chart of my new invention, whereby I can communicate with any planet in the universe."

Professors (in chorus)—"Ah! Wonderful! Wonderful! Perfectly feasible! You are one of the greatest geniuses of the age."

"Allow us to congratulate you most heartily."

Man in Uniform—"Excuse me, gents. I've got to take this person back to the asylum."

SADDEST OF ALL.

Chuggson—"I hear your house was carried away last week by the freshest. What became of the boarders?"
Fullem—"I don't know; and the worst of it is there was a week's board due me from nearly every boarder in it."

IN MINOR KEY.

Miss Asher—"Why do the critics give Herr Falkenhain such a reputation as a violinist?"
Mr. Teller—"Oh, because he knows how to string them."

Miss Finkler—"I always feel so helpless when mamma is away from the house. In fact, anybody could break in here and kiss me, and I just couldn't do a thing but let them."

NEAREST MAN.

Johnny Cloverfield—"Pa, may I go to the circus that's comin' next week?"
Pa Cloverfield—"Well, if you ain't the ungratefullest boy on earth! Here I've gone an' let the circus man waste all his big bills on our barn so's you could see it all without goin' in."

TRULY FOSSIL.

First College Student—"I object to bestowing honorary degrees on old codgers like those. They're way behind in mentality."
Second C.S.—"Yes, I'll bet neither of them could tell you who made the last running high-jump record."

DESPERATE.

Haughty Howard—"For heaven's sake, mister, lemme get under your umbrella. I'm getting a lot o' water on me!"

EXPERIENCE.

Charley Flitterly—"The idea of any one saying that cigarettes are injurious! I never have got any injury from them."

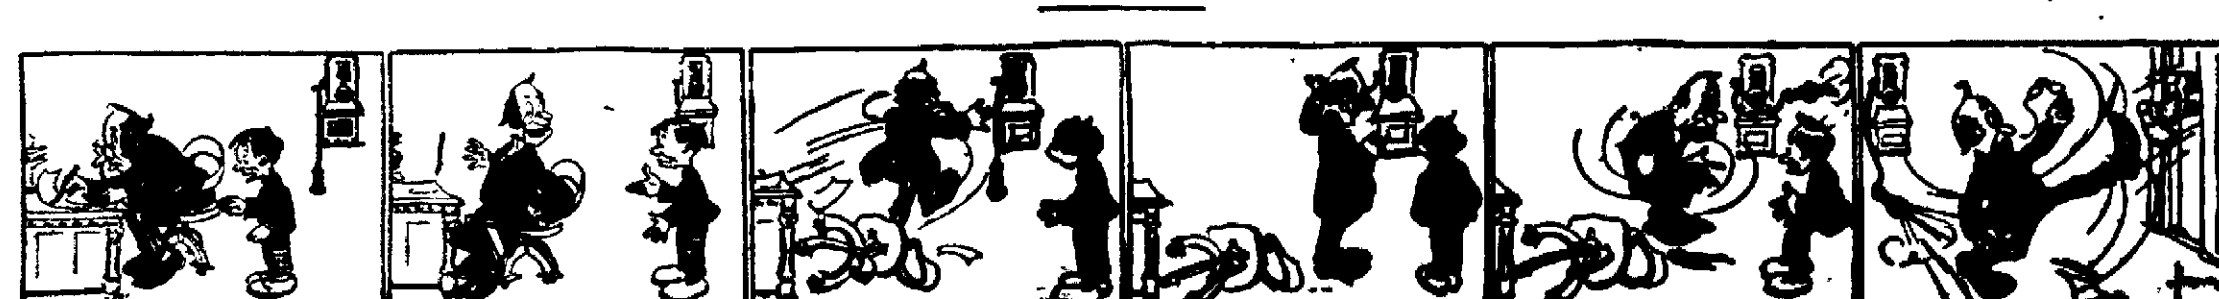

Old Grizzow—"Well, it's high time you did, Sam. I don't allow cigarettes on my premises."

EVENING GOWN—WHITE BEAU DE CHINE—BLACK AND WHITE LACE—LEAVES APPLIQUE.

All the shades of green, especially the soft gray-green tones, will be the mode for evening gowns. Tints of fawn, beige and cream will be much seen and blue in many tones. Baby blue, robin's-egg-blue and royal blue will all be fashionable. Gray and soft pink and the orchid shades of violet and purple will also be in favor. As for black and white effects, they seem to be perennially fashionable in other gowns. Skirts will still show the flounce. It will be trimmed and plaited, however, and be more dressy in effect than when a part of the skirt. Triple skirts will make a claim for favor. The circular skirt will stay with us, and for very many skirts the habit back will be the rage.

Of course, they are uncomfortable, but they are stylish. That is why nearly all of the new shoes have the Louis XV. heel. The heel is the most prominent feature of the new street shoe, the house slipper and tie. New patent leathers are made with the high French heel, and also on the common sense model with broad, flat soles and heels. In fancy slippers the gray suede, with three straps and a pattern in silver thread, is popular. For the house a big chicken bow is worn on the slipper, and the same style of tie is worn on the street with a silver buckle in place of the bow. The calf laced shoe will be worn in the street and country in disagreeable weather. The golf shoe comes with rubber soles. This shoe can be worn for any outdoor sport. A novelty is a bow and buckle that can be bought separately and fastened to either the ties and slippers. In stockings the open-work styles will be the favorite. The monogram stocking is the latest fad. The monogram is worked in silk thread on the instep. The design in open-work is elaborate, but run chiefly to sprays of flowers.

COLORS BRUNETTES SHOULD WEAR.

That blue, the pale blue, dedicated to Heaven and the babies, is a color for brunettes is a fact that is not generally known. A brunette, whose rather high coloring takes something from the refinement of her appearance, in a gown of a delicate shade of blue, loses her hardness of coloring and looks prettier, more delicate, and refined. Green is another color for the brunettes; it is becoming to the blonde as well, and it helps out, with its fresh verdant tints, the intermediate stage of the human complexion. A bright green brightens the natural brilliancy of a clear, dark complexion, throwing into relief the red of the cheek and lip, and lending to the eyes a clear sparkling light. A blonde requires a shade of green than the brunette. Too bright a blue would give to the fair haired fair skinned woman a shallow, washed out look. But is well to know that this color, as well as all others, can be softened and rendered wearable by either type of beauty. If judiciously combined with white, although pale blue is generally considered the color for blue eyes, it is a difficult color for a blonde, unless she have a perfect complexion, and if there be a defect in the eye, blue alone must not be worn, as it immediately calls the attention to the defective eye. Men are generally accorded with having a preference for blue. Does this convey a hint to a woman, who can never wear it, to don a blue gown, when she has a favor to ask of her father or husband.

HOW A BEAUTY DRESSES HERSELF.

An actress whose beauty is the talk of the town gave me the pleasure and privilege the other day of watching her dress herself for an afternoon reception. And this is actually what she wears: Next her, from her yoke down to her ankles, she puts on tights. They were in pink to exactly match her skin. Her stockings, which were of open work, revealed the tone of her tights, and so, of course, there must be no beginning and no end, just flesh color. The whole structure buttoned down the front, from the neck downward, all the way with flat buttons. And the whole set like her own neat gloves with which she later finished her toilet. Then came a ribbon corset, in Persian silk ribbon. The stripes were three inches wide and there were seven of them, one at the belt line and three above and three meeting at a neat pair of steels in front. All slim girls wear these ribbon corsets, and nicely they do for us. But for those who are too plump or who have a tendency to telescope, look out. Over the ribbon corset came a bolero corset cover. It was in narrow strips of lace and nainsook, and it was a little more than a pair of arm-holes. It terminated far above the waist line, with all the fullness of the bust, so that it assisted with the latest fashion mandate that thou shalt be fat where thou wantest to be fat and thin where it is best to be so. Then came the thinnest of white tulle petticoats, coming up under a silver corset hook, set very low on the corset, and finally the dress gown. You can imagine how the whole served to make the figure slender—even slenderer than would ordinarily have been, yet how comfortable it all was. Good-by to the flannel petticoat of sacred memory; good-by to the quilted satin petticoat of tradition. Farewell forever to the bifurcated lace-trimmed undergarment 'neath the petticoat, that once seemed like an article of one's creed.

BOUDOIR CHAT.

Old-fashioned doctors will tell you that mutton suet has far more curative and healing qualities for the poor little chapped and roughened faces and hands that cause so much pain, so many tears, these wintry days, than any or all the lotions and creams put up so daintily and luxuriously, so expensively, in the shops. When you buy mutton chops or a leg of mutton save all the suet; if you don't set in hot water; strain through cheese-cloth into wet cups; when cold it turns out a nice, round ball of snow-white, soft grease, to be applied as freely and as often as desired; it takes out soreness and always the pain of sore and chapped hands better than anything known. Another nice preparation for the hands is jelly cosmetic, which has the advantage over cold cream of drying at once and not leaving the hands greasy. To make it, soak thirty grains of gum tragacanth in seven ounces of rose water for three days. Strain forcibly through muslin, adding one ounce of glycerin, then one ounce of alcohol, then half a teaspoonful of pure borax, and two drops of oil of rose. This application is warranted to remove dandruff in short order: Forty-eight grains of resorcin, one-fourth ounce of glycerin, diluted alcohol to fill a two-ounce bottle. Put into the scalp with a medicine dropper every night, rubbing in well with the finger tips. Every fortnight shampoo the hair with seven or eight eggs and plenty of hot water. The eggs act as a tonic to the growth and are, besides, a perfect cleansing agent for the scalp and hair. Puffy places under the eyes most frequently signify some sort of kidney ailment. Half the women do not drink enough water to keep a canary bird healthy. Tea, coffee, and chocolate will not take the place of water. Make it a practice to drink a big glassful half an hour before each meal and another one two hours after each meal, and the puffy places will not only vanish, but your complexion will be clearer and your general health much improved.

BOUDOIR CHAT.

The three blouses shown are from the latest models from Paris. The first is an evening blouse of white crepe de chine. The high yoke is accented with a star point which ends in a lace medallion. The belt, which plays an important part this year in all costumes, is of white tulle. The second blouse, which is also suitable for evening wear, is of coral red tulle trimmed with blue silk. The third blouse is for evening wear. It is of blue peau de sole finished with lace. The design shows what a dress-maker can do with a conventional Greek design in the trimming of a gown.

Some Fashions for the Automoblist

Sack Back Automobile Coat.

Undoubtedly motoring is the outdoor pursuit of the present and the future, and equally without doubt it means that special garments are required to meet in as well as to ride in. The sack back three-quarter coat is admirably adapted to the purpose, for it is both smart and comfortable. It is made in hair seal, which is the coat of the Iceland seal, of a light fawn color, prettily marked, and the same skin makes the bolero, worn by the seated figure in the car. It is rather of the pouched Russian blouse style, with revers and collar and deep shaped belt, piped with pale blue satin. For driving, a skirt of the seal might be made to button apronwise over an ordinary skirt, which could be taken off on dismounting, leaving the top only as an ordinary smart bolero.

After dramatization. Mascagni is writing a new opera with Marie Antoinette as the principal character. Heavens is the historical opera to come next?—Chicago Tribune.

A low cut. Some women are devoid of a visible reason for wearing a low-cut gown.—San Francisco Town Talk.

Belts and blouses are attracting attention. The belts shown here consist of gray elastic bands, studded with steel and widened out at the back by a long steel buckle, narrowing down into a small steel clasp in front. The black elastic belts in about two-inch widths, with wide gold plaques behind, richly covered with cut steel, and fastened by a heart-shaped clasp in front, which comes well down into a point at the waist in front, are also handsome. The blouse shown in the sketch is a simple slip in esprit net, with square yoke of guipure, and elbow sleeves, a most dainty blouse for a young girl. In ties there are some pretty ones of fine white lawn, with ends of colored lawn, in accordance with the new, too, is that black and white stock, the rounded ends filled in with chiffon insertion and feather stitching.

LATTER DAY PERFUMERY.

Perfumery has become an art. No longer does one tip up the bottle of cologne, one's handkerchief and taunt it abroad dolent with crude and unpleasant odors, and patchouli and frangipanni have been replaced by violet in rarest imitations, by orchid suggestions, by yau d'Espagne, sandalwood and cedar. Egyptian powders have been experimented with until they have taken on a modern lacy, and the making of perfumery, once flowers is not now confined to great lemons, for many of the modern manufacturers scorn to produce any but the finest odors. It is the truth that lures the modern perfume, like that which the core of all real art, that makes it great. Moderation, of course, marks the use of these rare and expensive odors, the faint rime of which in our crowded cars, heated shops, and streets filled with scents' material odors, is as genuinely refreshing as the breath of a flower. Excesses are used most sparingly, and never the pocket handkerchief, which must be its delicate fragrance not from the b of our wretched American laundresses the anti-perfume cranks would insist, t from the sachet bag, in which it is used with its companions on coming to the laundry maid. Sachets, in fact, are the accepted fashion for modern and up-to-date perfuming methods. They are made in all forms and shapes and sizes for use in everything worn by women. Gloves, hats, furs, faces, lingerie, shoes are all placed in their sachet bags, and for the gowns there are delicate little pads sewn in the skirt and bodice. These pads are made with cotton batting, very thin, plentifully spread with sachet powder. The effect of the sachet is entirely different from that of the old sprinkled essence, which waters are more in favor than the latter, and the face and hands are bathed in them in preference to alcohol. They are added to the bath and give it tonic properties as well as making it delightfully refreshing. The main fact about latter-day perfumery is that the only crime is to vary it. Many fashionable women have chosen a distinctive flower, which they always wear, but there is no unwritten law against the varying of the blossom, as there is against change in a perfume. Once chosen the latter must be faithfully repeated in every belonging, book, fan and letter. Violet, always delicate and beautiful, has suffered much through its prevalence. Nine out of ten women choose violet when the fashion for perfume came back. Newer taste affects the old Russian leather scent, orris, or some of the new combinations of delicate odors, some of which are built upon violet but tempered with some other scent. All of these are most admirably prepared by the makers nowadays.

How to Make New Style of Coiffure

More Hair and More Attention Needed—One Method Requires Five Combs—Graceful Effect.

Front View of New Coiffure.

Knot and Combs.

The new style of hair-dressing demands much more attention, and—alas!—much more hair than when we merely drew our waved locks up into a little twist on the top of our heads. In one style soft waves of hair are divided at one side, and arranged to take the same upward curve at the sides which has kept the high coiffure in favor so long. The ends of these side pieces are then rolled under and kept in position by decorative combs, so that the rather more closely waved hair at the back is allowed to follow faithfully the curved contour of the head. Then low down in the neck comes a knot, the result being that, viewed from either the side or the back, the contour of your coiffure is graceful to a degree. For this style of hair-dressing the side-combs, the quaintly shaped backcomb which surmounts the knot, and again the two pins which are thrust through its soft coils, are made in blond tortoise-shell and decorated with trails of tiny golden blossoms and silver leaves. Another set of combs in dark shell, with loop pins and slides to match, shows a delicate tracery of gold studded with turquoises.

ETON JACKETS AND BLOUSES.

Imported model shows that the Eton jacket is returning to favor. One of the latest models is of Venetian cloth, in gray, with embroidered collar and cuffs. The revers are of blue panne velvet. Another Eton model is of black velvet, with an embroidered double collar and embroidery on the sleeves and at the elbow. The hat is of chiffon and plumes. Among the prettiest of the season's blouses are those made of the dainty squares of white moire louisine silk, printed in the most charming pastel colorings. A more fetching waist than these can hardly be imagined. There is such a daintiness, such a delicacy about them; they seem more like a work of art than prosaic products of looms for one's adornment. These squares admit, too, of the most original making. Indeed, no two waists are ever alike. Worn with a white skirt, or one of the color that predominates, they make an ideal costume. One pretty waist was built of three of these showy designs in soft blues and delicious pinks. The designs are warp printed, which gives that exquisite blur of colors that is so artistic. This waist was made up with a tucked yoke and under parts of the sleeves of a blue crepe de chine that exactly match the tender blue in the design. One square made the back and two others the fronts. A corner was taken off these to make deep cuffs on the short sleeves. The blouses are of tulle and flannel. They are elaborately stitched or are embroidered. With them are worn neck chains as fine as hair. This is the latest mode of jewelry from Paris. Vienna is making a bid to rival Paris as a dictator of fashions. Of the models sent to this city for approval a lovely bodice is a good example, made in soft, white chiffon, with perpendicular stripes of chine silk, mingled with light-blue stole ends to the waist in a soft pouch effect all round, surmounted, as it seems, by a bolero; the sleeves are large at the elbow and tapering toward the wrist, exquisitely finished, and about as smart a bodice as could be desired. A gray voile is bordered down the front across the bolero, and on the skirt with festoons of tissue representing chine flowers, giving a most finished aspect to a dress arranged in very pure taste. A fawn gown of a soft material for day wear is noticeable for exquisite embroidery in a neutral tone, introduced alike on bodice and skirt. The cut of all the skirts is simply perfect, standing out well with bouffant flounces at the hem, flounce over flounce; a style exemplified in a pretty lace gown of ecru tone, sheath-like about the hips, widening into many flounces at the feet, medallions of beautiful black guipure introduced at intervals.

Shirt Waists for Summery Days

Of chiffon folds, with black ribbon drawn through every other fold, trimmed with medallions of lace. Coarse flannels embroidered in Bulgarian colors and patterns make effective neck-cuff and belt bands. One pretty little model for a collar is in wide scallops, worked with black guipure on an art design in every color. The collar, too, is in hand. A style which is just as effective and answers the same purpose is a black satin waist and one in the middle of the back. It is a shaped belt, but must be shaped by a hand.
